DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed on 8/29/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In re page 4, Applicants argue that Lang does not teach "wherein the attribute is value selected by the user from a set of three or more ordered values indicative of an assessment by the user of merit of the clip."

In response, regarding claim 1, Applicants recited the limitation "a user interface for allowing user input of an attribute for storage with the clip, wherein the attribute is value selected by the user from a set of three or more ordered values indicative of an assessment by the user of merit of the clip." The Examiner considers that Lang does disclose this limitation. Lang discloses a control panel (user interface) for allowing the user to perform editing operation, in which audio commentaries (attribute value selected by the user by the user from more order values indicative of an assessment by the user of merit of the clip) to be added to silent video representation (clip), column 9, line 64 through column 10, line 32.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 2612

3. Claims 1, 6, 11, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lang (US 5,164,839).

Regarding claims 1, 6, Lang discloses a system for capturing video data defining a moving picture, comprising means for receiving the video data from a source (AVRU 11, Figure 2, Column 3, Lines 50-67); means for storing (memory 13, Figure 2), in real time as the video data is received, the video data as a clip (video segments, Column 6, Line 50; Column 10, Lines 10-19) in a computer data file on a non-volatile random-access computer-readable and rewritable medium (Column 6, Lines 28-40) according to a trigger signal associated with the source; means (input port 17, Figure 2) for providing for storage of an attribute (audio, Column 10, Lines 10-32) associated with the clip; and a user interface (control panel, Column 10, Lines 10-32) for allowing user input of an attribute for storage with the clip, wherein the attribute is value selected by the user from a set of three or more ordered values indicative of an assessment by the user of merit of the clip (Column 10, Lines 10-32).

Regarding claim 11, 15, Lang discloses a system for editing a motion picture, comprising means for storing (memory 13, Figure 2) video data as a plurality of clips (video segments, Column 6, Line 50; Column 10, Lines 10-19) in a plurality of computer data files on a non-volatile random-access computer-readable and rewritable medium (Column 6, Lines 28-40), wherein at least some of the plurality of clips have an attribute associated with the clip, wherein the attribute is a value from a set of three or more ordered values indicative of an assessment of merit of the clip (Column 10, Lines 10-32); means for allowing a user to supply a desired attribute (input port 17, Figure 2, Column 10, Lines 20-30); means for selecting one or more clips from the plurality of clips according to the attribute associated with the clip and the desired attribute supplied by user (select individual frame, Column 7, Lines 1-5); and means for presenting the selected clips as options to the user for insertion into motion picture (flat panel display, Column 6, Line 60 – Column 7, Line 5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-5, 7-10, 12-14, 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lang (US 5,164,839) in view of Wang et al. (US 5,802,361).

Regarding claims 2, 7, Lang discloses the system stores a plurality of clips (video segments are stored in memory 13, Figure 2, Column 6, Line 50; Column 10, Lines 10-19).

Lang fails to specifically disclose means for searching the attributes of the clips according to a desired attribute; and means for displaying an indication of one or more of the clips corresponding to the desired attribute. However, Wang et al. teaching a system for searching graphic images and videos, which includes a user interface (display 103, Figure 1) allows the user to construct a search inquiry with icons representing image attributes corresponding to the image data in the side information file (see abstract, Figures 1-2, Column 7, Lines 25-35, 60-67; Column 8, Lines 5-20). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device in Lang by the teaching of Wang et al. in order to provide a user interface that facilitates the creation and modification of a search inquiry using visual attributes (Column 4, Lines 33-35).

Regarding claims 3, 8, Wang et al. discloses means for ranking the clips according to the attributes (means for ranking image attribute, Column 18, Lines 50-55).

Regarding claims 4, 9, 13, 17, Wang et al. discloses means for identifying clips having an attribute that is above the threshold (threshold variance value, Column 26, Lines 1-32).

Regarding claims 5, 10, 14, 18, Lang discloses means for selecting the clips having the received value as an attribute (select individual frame, Column 7, Lines 1-5). Wang et al. discloses means for receiving an indication of a value in the set of ordered values (Column 26, Lines 1-65).

Regarding claims 12, 16, Lang fails to specifically disclose means for ranking the clips according to the attributes. However, Wang et al. teaches means for ranking image attribute (Column 18, Lines 50-55). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device in Lang by the teaching of Wang et al. in order to allow the user to be able to assign a numerical rank to each image attribute in the search inquiry (Column 18, Lines 50-51).
